WASHINGTON, D. C., August 14.-The con Washington, D. C., August 14.—The conference held to night by the Republican senators to consider the order of business for the rest of the session adjourned shortly before 11 o'clock without reaching any conclusion, if what those in attendance may can be relied upon. There was a stronger disposition than usual not to give out the secrets of the conference, but enough was learned to warrant the statement that a high old time prevailed, and it is understood that Spooner read the "riot act," and other senators who are into the interest of the members in the city, and the hardest sert of thing to keep them in their seats. impant advocates of the passage of the orce bill did their utmost to induce the not to think of adopting the Quay plan for settling the difficulty.

The bill is referred to the Committee on Post-Office.

The Quar resolution continued to be the igning topic at the Capitol to-day, but of draw in advance of the conference or cause of Republican senators every one had mply to content himself with specular. simply to content finisel win specials then, although the prevailing sentiment has been for two weeks or more that the force bill was dead for this session, with not one chance in ten for its resurection. The very fact that that rabid, rank. South hating sheet, the New York Trians, squirmed and protested editorially comes to be regarded South-hating sheet, the New York Prime. Squirmed and protested editorially this morning seems to be regarded as pretty conclusive evidence that the measure has practically been shelved. In its fit of desperation the Tribune has poured forth torrents of abuse not only upon Senators Quay and Cameron, but also upon Congressmen Reyburn and Harmer, who have been asserting positively here for the peast month that even should the Senate pass the force bill it could never again base the House. Now a base party organ ask the Tribune comes out and charges sorded motives upon these gentlemen for their change of hearts. They have found the press and people of their own city against a bill that is calculated to create tropbie, stir up trouble, and renew the bitter memories of a past era, and from patriotic impulses they have concluded to oppose the proposed law, yet the unfair Tribune insists that both gentlemen have private interests to serve, and that they want to kill a bill that the Republicans are howling for everywhere. The wail of the poor old sleepy, South hating Tribune only makes people smile here, and if the bill were not as good as dead the editorial writers employed thereon would not snort so loudly, and practically charge that Quay and Cameron bought their seats in the Senate.

THE CHANCES AGAINST IT. Doubtless a majority of the Republican Doubtless a majority of the Kerublican senators are in favor of passing some kind of an election law, and if it could be done this session without sacrificing the tariff, river and harbor, and other important bills they would make a determined stand; but things have been in such shape for several days that it has been generally conceded that no matter what the caucus might decide the chances are ten to one against calling up and passing the force bill this session.

MISERPRESENTATION.

By way of illustrating the natural propensity of some correspondents of Kadical newspapers to misrepresent, twist, and distort any item that is likely to fire the hearts of the political cranks in the North, it can be stated that a wild ink-slinger representing the New York Press in Washington the other day endeavored to work up a thrilling censation over the alleged fact that a young negro named Anderson was shannefully treated in the press gallery of the House. It seems that Anderson eame here to address a negro meeting held to favor the passage of the force bill. He has occasionally done some work for the New York Mail and Express and as he was coming to Washington Colonel Eliqtt Fewtalk Sheppard gave him a letter of introduction to Mr. Perry S. Heath, the correspondent of the Indianapolis Journal, and temporarily representing the Mail and Express during the absence of Mr. Birrier in Kurope, who is the regular correspondent of the paper. Anderson came to the sees called the House, presented his letter, tarried a short while, and then teft.

THE NEGRO THE BETTER MAN Anderson was very quiet, behaved himself, and only casual notice was taken of his presence by any one, but the inkslinger for the New York Press and one other South-hating scribbler sent out sensational screeds to their Radical organs stating that southern correspondents of "Bourben" papers had shamefully snubbed and mistreated this young colored man, and also induled this young colored man, and also indulged in a lot of slobber and rot. that was simply

The new Constitution was adopted, and a plan of a primary election at this year's election for delegates to the State nominating convention was defeated.

Upon this action the delegations from Richland, Charleston, Beauford, and Sumter, comprising the anti-fillmanites, withdrew, formed a new convention, and elected Hon, George Lamb Buist chairman and E. Columbus, S. This convention met at 4.30 and adjourned at 5:30 A. M. till 10 A. M. Upon the reassembling of the straightouts a call was prepared which will be published to-morrow to the people of the State. An address will also be issued to-morrow stating the cause of the withdrawal. ACTION OF THE STRAIGHOUTS.

The News and Courier will say to-morrow: The convention in September will not be composed of the same delegates that attended the August Convention. In ten of the counties, as we are informed, the election of delegates to the September convention was clearly illegal, and in these ten counties it will be necessary to go into a new election of delegates. With anything like organization and proper activity on the part of the straightout Democrats it will be practicable to secure a clear majority in the September convention against Tillman. It is with this object in view that the straightouts should organize and work. The August convention has settled nothing except the primary question. The work that is accomplished between the present time and the assembling of the September convention will decide the contest.

ALEXANDRIA. August 14, 1890.

Mr. Wilmer J. Entwisle, one of Alexandria's oldest and best-known citizens, died at his home on King street at an early hour this morning after a long illness from dropsy. Mr. Entwisle was in the bookselling business for a number of years, first as one of the firm of Bell & Entwisle, and later as W. J. Entwisle & Brother, and was well known all over the State. A few years ago he closed out the tusiness and accepted a position in the First National Bank, which he held at the time of his death. He leaves a wife and several children.

THE LASPDAY OF GRACE.

The Last DAY OF GRACE.

To-day is the last day of the time granted the liquor-dealers convicted at the last term of the Corporation Court of selling liquor on Sunday to come forward and take oath not to violate the law again. All have done so with one exception, and on to-morrow his license will be revoked for thirty days, as required by the sentence imposed when the dealers were convicted. Judge Norton, when the dealers were convicted and sentenced, said that he was determined to stop the sale of liquor in the city on Sunday, and there is no doubt that he means what he says. If any of the dealers who have subscribed to the oath are found to have broken it they will be proceeded against for perjury, besides having their licenses revoked. It is quite safe to say that Alexandria will be a very "cry" town on Sunday for some time to cone. THE LAST DAY OF GRACE.

The conditions in the Delaware and Hudson strike have not materially changed. No freight has been moved out of Albany to-day on that road.

The strikers got hold of the men who came on from Chicago and Boston yesterday with the result that this morning forty-two of experienced western railroadmen who were to be put to work at West Albany refused to go to work and are now in consultation with the Central strikers. Twenty of the men who came from Boston and have been working at Karners, eight miles from here, also quit work to-day. To add to these discouragements to the efforts of the road's officials to move freight, green switchmen from the Fitchburg road begleeted to set the switches properly in the West Albany yards to-day, resulting in the deralment of an engine with six cabooses. In conversation with half a dozen of the men who came on from Chicago it was learned that many of the men had been under contract with the Central for weeks before this strike was declared, and when they were asked Friday to come on here and fulfil their coptract they refused. The hey were want the company would hot take we men the company would hot take with the came on. It was also say few men the company would not sake back, so they came on. New Yonk, August 14.—The Grand Central depot had fairly assumed its normal appearance this morning. Whatever may be said of the status of the strike in Albany there is little or no indication that the railroad has been crippled here. There is no sign of a firemen's strike, and the report that it has been ordered is entirely discredited by the railroad officials. Chief Arthur, of he Locomotive Engineers, says no stively the Locomotive Engineers, says positively that his organization is not to take any part whatever in the strike, and that he does not believe the firemen will either.

[By telegraph to the Dispatch,]

Loursville, Kv., August 14.—The immense distillery and warehouse of the Kentucky Distilling Company, owned by Barkhouse & Co., was burned to-day, along with 25,000 barrels of whiskey. The fire began in the warehouse, and was caused by the carelessness of a colored laborer, who was shifting barrels with a lighted lamp standing on the floor. A barrel rolled against the lamp, breaking it, and as the barrel was leaking the whiskey and oil flashed up like gunpowder and flames filled the buildings at once. Not a single barrel of the liquor was saved. The heat was tremendous and the fire uncontrollable. All the buildings belonging to the plant were destroyed. FREDERICK BERT'S MILLIONS. A Philadelphia Manager's Wonderful Luck.

(Philadelphia liquirer.)

Frederick Bert, the stout, black-bearded, good-natured manager of the Standard Theatre, had quite a number of visitors yesterday, all eager to learn what he thought about the prospects of being part heir to an estate of three million dollars.

Since the publication yesterday morning of the dispatch from San Francisco announcing the decease of the French wine-manufacturer, who was an uncle of Mr. Bert's father, and the fact that Mr. Bert and his remaining relatives are the only known heirs, nothing else was talked about by those in and around the theatre and the genial manager's large circle of friends.

"I am very loath to speak about the affair," said Mr. Bert last evening: "in fact, I am very sorry it got out at all, for I know as little about it at present as yourself. I believe myself there is not the slightest truth in the report. A man has to work for a million dollars and I doubt my good fortune in getting that much so easily. It is ton good to be true. [Philadelphia Inquirer.]

truth in the report. A man has to work for a million dollars and I doubt my good fortune in getting that much so easily. It is too good to be true.

"This morning a lawyer named Schich came to me and stated that he had a claim of $50,000 against the estate of my father's uncle, of which he could not collect a penny until the estate had been administered upon. He said he had traced out the heirs and pressed me to procure the proofs of my heirship and lay claim to the estate. I immediately wrote to my mother, who, with my brother Edward, resides in San Francisco, asking who I am and all about it. Until that answer comes I can say very little on the subject.

"I have retained my son, Eugene P. Bert, who is a lawyer in San Francisco, and have also engaged counsel in this city. I shall leave the matter with my counsel entirely, and as yet have no plans of my own. I know nothing of my father's uncle. "In any well-appointed saloon almost you will see a 'Bert wine,' and during my father's lifetime he said: 'Boys, some day you will enjoy that.' I know my mother nover had any correspondence with our rich relative."

There are at present three heirs to the any correspondence with our rich relative."

There are at present three heirs to the Frenchman's millions. They are Frederick, Charles, and Edward Bert.

Their father was French, his name being Etienne Gustave Bert. He emigrated to this country when a young man, coming to Philadelphia, and was known as Ed. Berk. The father had an uncle in France who was a wealthy land-owner and mannfacturer of wine and champagne. Their father died and the three sons are, through him, the direct heirs. The estate, it is said, consists of thousands of acree of land in France, Germany, and England. Their estimated value is given at $12,008,000.

Most of the Bert family have been lifelong workers in the different ranks of the these life, the father being the first to bring to this country a trouge of Japanese artists. He was very success'al. His death occurred two years ago in this city. Ldward G. Bert is the proprietor of a saloon in San Francisco. Charles Bert is a prominent theatrical manager and was at one time treasurer of the California Theatre.
